Congo Troops Pursue Main Rebel Force

Snipers Active, But Stanleyville Under Control

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Snipers' bullets still whistled through Stanleyville today as government troops pushed across the Congo River after the main rebel force.

"Stanleyville is under control, but all resistance has not been eliminated," said an American Embassy spokesman.

"The city is virtually deserted. The Congolese have fled to the bush. But snipers are still active and you can easily get a bullet through your head."

Since the U.S.-Belgian airborne operation began Tuesday, at least 59 foreigners including three Americans have been slain by the Peking-backed rebels. The paratroopers rescued about 1,800 white hostages in Stanleyville and Paulis.

In Paulis, which was seized Thursday by Belgian paratroopers, about 100 whites awaited evacuation on U.S. C130s. At least 170 foreigners were brought here from Paulis Thursday.

Belgian paratroopers were scouring an 18-mile radius around Paulis for other foreigners.

The U.S. spokesman said the evacuation of refugees from Stanleyville has been completed. The American planes brought a total of 1,070 refugees from Stanleyville and Paulis. Congolese and other aircraft have airlifted hundreds of others from the rebel zone.

The embassy said five Americans remained in rebel-controlled areas. They are Miss A. Chansler, who is believed to be about 18 miles from Paulis in the village of Egbita; W. McChesney, last reported in Wamba, and Mrs. F. J. Cunningham and her two children in Titule. All are connected with the Heart of Africa Mission of Fort Washington, Pa.

Other reports said several hundred whites of other nationalities were still missing in the northern Congo, and the Belgian paratroopers were planning other rescue missions before leaving the country this weekend.

Reliable reports said the paratroopers might drop at Bunia, on the eastern frontier, or Watsa, to the northeast, to save whites there from massacre at the hands of the rebels.

South of Stanleyville, rebels recaptured the tin mining town of Ponia, taken last week by the government troops on their march toward Stanleyville.

Despite the reports that the Belgian paratroopers might make more drops, Premier Theodor Leleux of Belgium said in Brussels that Belgian rescue operations in the Congo will end today.

Violent protests against the Western powers continued in Communist and African capitals. In Cairo, hundreds of African students burned the U.S. Information Agency's John F. Kennedy Memorial Library and a Marine barracks in the U.S. Embassy compound. No one was hurt.

The U.S. and Belgian embassies were stoned in Nairobi, Kenya, and the U.S., British and Belgian embassies were attacked in Prague.

There was speculation that the rebels would take the offensive again when the Belgian paratroopers are withdrawn this weekend. Premier Moise Tsombe's white mercenaries and supporting Congolese army troops did not appear to have sufficient strength to consolidate the rapid gains they have made across a vast area of the northern Congo.

Viet Nam Talks May Bring Plan To Expand War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor started today an intensive reappraisal of U.S. strategy in anti-Communist war in Viet Nam. The study may lead to a decision by President Johnson to broaden the war.

Taylor met with Rusk early this morning, beginning a schedule of talks to be climaxed by White House sessions with President Johnson and other decision makers next week.

The administration appeared to be moving reluctantly toward a cautious expansion of the conflict beyond South Viet Nam in the hope of improving prospects for a peaceful settlement.

Johnson and other top administration officials are reported to have divided feelings about Viet Nam strategy between sticking to confining the war almost entirely to South Viet Nam, and making some strikes to the north.

Taylor, who returned to Washington Thursday, is known to believe that the time for new decisions is at hand. Furthermore he sees some advantages in authorizing and promptly undertaking air strikes either against Communist supply lines from North Viet Nam to South Viet Nam through the neighboring kingdom of Laos, or against Communist concentration points for men and supplies in the north.

Taylor recently declared that the outcome of the conflict is now "very much in doubt."

But he said he thought attacks in targets in Red-ruled territory would probably make the Chinese and North Vietnamese Communist leadership realize that the conquest it seeks in the south will become too expensive because of impending damage in the north.

The ambassador is reported to believe that such attacks might thus compel the Hanoi regime to reconsider its policies and enter into negotiations on terms more favorable to South Viet Nam than are now considered possible.

Another benefit Taylor is believed to see in strikes to the north is that they might have a heartening effect upon military and anti-Communist elements in the south.

Government instability has been for months one of the most serious problems in South Viet Nam. Though Taylor praised the "courage and determination" of the government, he

3 Witnesses Stay Silent During Attack

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two men and a woman uttered not a word nor moved a muscle as they stood 15 feet from a man assaulting a 39-year-old Pacific Palisades woman with a wrench, the victim told police.

Corene Griffin suffered numerous body bruises and had to have six stitches taken in a head wound. After she escaped she demanded of the bystanders: Why?

"We thought it was a private matter, maybe a husband and wife fight," the woman witness said.

Mrs. Griffin said she left an opera in Shrine Auditorium late Wednesday night because she didn't feel well. She went to her car — parked under a street light in a service station near the auditorium — and lay down. She said she dozed off and was awakened by her assailant, who drove off in her car after she managed to get out of it.

Brandt Re-elected

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP) — Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin has been overwhelmingly re-elected national chairman of the opposition Social Democratic Party.

The re-election Thursday strengthened Brandt's leadership for next fall's general election campaign against Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and his Christian Democrats.

Wayne Man Is Robbed At Gunpoint

Lutz May, 84, a Wayne Twp. resident, was robbed at gunpoint Wednesday evening by two unidentified persons, it was reported today by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

May told Sheriff Walton W. Spangler two men, the lower part of their faces covered by red handkerchiefs, entered his house while he was watching television.

He said they pointed a .22 caliber single shot rifle at him and demanded that he give them all the money he had.

When he told them he had none, he said they threw him to the floor and ransacked the house. They found $9.65 in a jar in the kitchen.

A search of the area following the report of the incident failed to turn up any persons who might have been involved. The robbery was reported by Mrs. Ada Burke, a niece.

Once Around Roundtown

A HUGE crowd was expected to turn out for the Santa Claus Parade this afternoon in the downtown area.

Sunny skies and mild temperatures were contributing factors in the crowd predictions. Following the parade, Santa was to go immediately to his house on the southwest corner of Court and Main Sts.

Kiddies visiting Santa between now and Christmas Eve will receive a candy cane, compliments of local merchants and Jaycees — sponsors of the parade and Santa's visit here.

More Agents Will Protect President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Secret Service will expand its machinery for presidential protection significantly in the next few months, adding 75 agents, clerks and technical personnel as the first step.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said "the basic emphasis will be on more effective advance and preventive work by the service in connection with presidential travel, as well as the use of more sophisticated equipment."

The Secret Service is under the Treasury Department.

In announcing the plans today, Dillon said the hiring of 75 additional persons would cost approximately $650,000.

The Secret Service has not made public its exact number of agents but the present total is believed about 400.

There already has been some increase in the Secret Service since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The references to sophisticated equipment and technical personnel indicate the service is moving ahead with plans to use electronic data processing methods in trying to ferret out potential assassins and keep track of their whereabouts.

Space Shot Delayed

Nineteen Dead, Missing In Tragic Ship Crash

NEW YORK (AP) — Nineteen crewmen of a Norwegian tanker are dead or missing from a Thanksgiving Day tragedy in which their vessel was sliced in two by an Israeli luxury liner heading out on a carefree Caribbean cruise.

The collision occurred 18 miles off the New Jersey Coast shortly after 2 a.m. Thursday in dense fog.

The stern quarter of the tanker sank in the pall of darkness and fog. Water poured into the liner's bow compartments, which were sealed off.

An air-sea rescue operation was quickly put in motion.

Clad variously in nightdress or ballroom attire, many of the cruise liner's 616 passengers raced to decks to watch through the mist.

Eventually, 24 of the tanker's 43-member crew were snatched from the seas, from swamped lifeboats and from the barely floating forward section of the vessel. Among them were a stewardess — the lone woman aboard — and the tanker's captain.

Some of the men saved from the sea were only partially clad. They were oil-smeared, blue with cold and in some cases insensible from shock.

As time wore on through a gray dawn, the Atlantic yielded 13 bodies. A massive daylong search of the area finally was called off at sundown without any trace of six men still missing.

The vessels involved were the $20-million liner Shalom, pride of the Israeli merchant fleet and its seven-month-old flagship, and the 12,723-ton Norwegian tanker Stolt Dagali.

The 629-foot-long, 25,320-ton Shalom had sailed from New York at 11:15 the night before, after a round of gay farewell parties on what was to have been a leisurely 10-day cruise to the West Indies.

Aboard the sparkling white ship were 1,076 persons. They included crew members and a host of entertainers. No one suffered an injury of any consequence, it was reported.

The tanker, whose home port is Oslo, was inbound for Newark, N.J., on a voyage from Philadelphia. Her tanks were 80 per cent filled with a cargo of vegetable oil.

As the two plowed through the foggy murk on what was to be a collision course, neither apparently had any impending sense of danger even though both were equipped with radar.

Reading Education Seen As Bad, but Improving

CLEVELAND (AP) — "The way we teach children to read in this country still is pretty bad, but it's getting better," a reading expert said today.

Dr. Ruth Strickland, research professor of education at Indiana University, took a long, hard look at reading instruction during a recent tour of the United States and Europe.

"Some of the new ideas we see are pretty far out," she said in an interview during the annual convention of the National Council of Teachers of English. "On the other hand, we're getting some solid new information, too."

"For instance, we've got to stop saying that English is so non-phonetic (i.e., that words aren't spelled the way they are sounded). Out at Stanford, Paul Hannah has done some marvelous work with computers which shows that English words are really quite phonetic."

"Our trouble is basically with words we have borrowed from other languages — bouquet and knight, for instance — but even with these borrowed words there is a pattern we can see."

Among the things she has seen which encourage her are a linguistic approach to reading tried in Philadelphia, and a language approach which started in San Diego and has spread to nearby areas.

In the linguistic approach, Professor Strickland said, children are first taught to recognize the letters of the alphabet. Then they are taught the most common pattern of English spelling, the consonant-vowel-consonant. Examples would be 'pin,' 'cut,' and 'hat.'

The children are taught to sound out the words, not the individual letters. Next they learn consonant substitution — changing 'pin' to 'tin,' 'cut' to 'rut,' and 'hat' to 'bat.'

Further lessons show how the final letter 'e' changes the sound of the initial vowel — as in 'cut' and 'cute,' 'hat' and 'hate,' 'pin' and 'pine.'

In the language approach, emphasis is on teaching the children to read and write stories which they make up themselves in their own words — not the artificial, constantly-repeated words found in so many beginning readers.

Those readers, incidentally, are a sore point with professor Strickland.

"They may be getting just a little bit better, but some brand new thinking should be done on them," she said.

"Children don't say, 'Oh, oh, oh. Look, look, look. Children don't live such nambly-pamby lives. Little boys don't play house.'"

Traffic Toll Reaches 213

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's Thanksgiving weekend traffic death rate slackened today after Thursday's heavy highway mortality. Since 6 p. m. (local time), Wednesday, the traffic toll reached 213.

With the frequency of fatalities far less than on Thanksgiving Day, the rate of deaths slid down the scale to less than for the first nine months of this year when it averaged 126 a day.

Traffic experts said that unpleasant driving weather over much of the North and absence of Thursday's pressure to keep Thanksgiving dinner appointments probably figured in the lull. Also, today had the usual characteristics of workday occupation for perhaps a majority of Americans.

With only about half of the four-day holiday weekend over, it was too early to tell whether the final toll for the 102-hour period would exceed last year's 543, a record since the annual count was started in 1958.

Wet weather, snow in the Pacific Northwest and Midwest and rain in the East, created hazardous driving conditions in many areas. Highway travel, although not regarded as heavy as on other major national holidays, appeared above normal in most of the nation.

Multiple-death accidents were reported in a number of states.

A mother and three of her children were killed Thursday night when their car rammed a parked truck on the Kansas Turnpike near Wellington, Kan. Three men and a woman were killed when their automobile hit a utility pole in Akron, Ohio.

The worst accident during the holiday thus far reported was near Olanta, S.C., where seven members of one family and the driver of a second car were killed in a head-on collision.

Chinese Diplomat Visits Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Chen Yi, Communist Chinese foreign minister, arrived in Jakarta today on an unannounced visit for talks with Indonesian leaders.

Chen Yi's arrival became known only two hours before his plane landed.

There was speculation that President Sukarno would try to enlist Red China's aid in barring Malaysia from the Asian-African Conference in Algiers next spring.

Signal Drops In Mariner 4

Launching Reset For Saturday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Spacecraft communication problems today forced postponement of an attempt to launch Mariner 4 to Mars to take pictures and probe scientific secrets.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration described the trouble as an apparent temporary drop in signal strength in the spacecraft receiving system. A statement said it appeared to be associated with ground support equipment rather than with the payload.

The launching was rescheduled Saturday in a period between 9:22 a.m. and 12:32 p.m. EST.

The launch crew had only a 3-hour, 13-minute favorable period ending at 12:41 p.m. EST in which to fire the Atlas-Agena rocket to achieve the desired trajectory. When the trouble could not be corrected in time, the shot was called off for the day.

The rocket is to propel Mariner 4 across 326 million miles of space for a brief encounter with the red planet next July 15.

If successful, the unmanned craft will skim within 8,600 miles of Mars and radio to earth the first close-up information ever obtained from the planet. Many astronomers believe that a basic form of life such as vegetation exists there.

Mariner 4 will not be able to detect life. Its main purpose is to collect data that engineers need for designing life-seeking spacecraft that the United States hopes to land on Mars in 1969.

Project scientists hope that Mariner 4 will succeed where Mariner 3 failed an identical assignment Nov. 5.

Mariner 3 fizzled when its glass shroud collapsed within five minutes after launching. The shroud was unable to drop off and imprisoned the spacecraft, preventing it from unfolding its power-gathering solar panels and from achieving sufficient speed for the Mars trip.

Mariner 3 now is in lifeless orbit about the sun.

A magnesium-strengthened shield was devised for Mariner 4.

Akron Crash Kills 4, Ohio Toll Climbs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio's Thanksgiving holiday traffic death toll nearly doubled with one accident in Akron early today.

Only five traffic deaths had been reported during the first day and a half of the long holiday weekend. Then a car missed a curve in Akron and slammed broadside into a utility pole, killing four young people.

Police said the bodies were so badly mangled that none of the victims could be identified immediately.

That left a toll of nine dead midway through the holiday period. State safety officials said they expected 22 deaths on Ohio highways during the 102-hour period.

There was one fire-caused death and none due to miscellaneous mishaps for a total accidental death toll, thus far, of 10.

60 Attend Dinner

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — It is a good thing Clem F. Imfeld lives in a big house.

The Hamilton attorney was host for a Thanksgiving dinner and 60 of his 64 descendants arrived from as far off as Miami, Fla., to join in the feast.

The guests were Imfeld's five married sons and five married daughters with their 40 children. Four of his grand-children were unable to come.

Big Push Ahead For Lawmakers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State lawmakers have been advised by party floor leaders to rest up this holiday weekend. The coming week or two will see a strenuous drive to wind up this special session.

This week—the third—was the most significant so far.

The House passed and sent to the Senate two of the major measures for which Gov. James to comment on circumstances preceding the collision.

Suddenly the rending crash occurred, with the Shalom's bow slicing into the tanker.

Some of the tanker's crew were flung from their bunks into the icy ocean. They found themselves fighting for life without an instant's notion of what had happened.

Some took to lifeboats while 10 others, including Capt. Kristian Bendorsen, remained with the forward section that included the tanker's bridge.

At 2:23 a.m., the tanker sent an SOS message. Moments later it asked the Shalom to stand by and give aid.

The Coast Guard flashed an alert for a possible "major marine disaster." For a time there were fears the liner might be in danger too. Coast Guard ships, planes and helicopters sped for the scene.

Another cruise ship returning from the Caribbean, the 20,000-ton Santa Paula, noted the position and headed for it also.

Aboard the Shalom, passengers still awake were startled by the crunch of the collision. Some couples on the dance floor were thrown off their feet. Others awoke were tossed about and one or two sent rolling onto the floor.

The ship's intercom loudspeakers announced that there had been a collision. Passengers were assured that the liner was not in any danger. They were told the ship was standing by to pick up survivors from the tanker.

Passengers said afterward there was no panic, and praised the liner's crew for its conduct.

Passengers said the dance band began playing again about 4 a.m., the bar was reopened and the ship served free drinks after the first round.

Tons of salt water poured through a huge gash at the liner's bow. The crew quickly sealed off forward compartments by closing watertight doors.

A. Rhodes called the 105th General Assembly back to the statehouse — congressional redistricting and legislative reapportionment.

Representatives passed the bill to remap districts of Ohio's 24 congressmen Wednesday before going home for Thanksgiving. The measure may be in for a rough time in the Senate, however.

A day earlier, the House took up the matter of districts of nearly equal population for its own members, adopting a resolution making 69,332 persons the basis for each representative.

Both proposals result from U.S. Supreme Court decisions that a state's lawmakers, in Congress or legislature, must represent approximately the same number of persons as fellow legislators from the same state in the same chamber.

The fourth week of the special session begins at 1:30 p.m. Monday for senators and 7:30 p.m. the same day for the House. Although up to now both chambers have gone home after three workdays, there are indications they will hold floor sessions through Friday next week.

The congressional redistricting bill which passed 84 - 32 Wednesday needed 69 votes. Twelve Republicans broke majority ranks to oppose it, but 17 Democrats sided with Republicans in favoring it.

As it came out of the House, with Senate revision virtually certain, the bill makes these district changes:

1st, 2nd — Adjusts Hamilton County dividing line slightly.

3rd—Takes out Butler County, six townships of Montgomery.

4th—Unchanged.

5th—Adds Sandusky County.

6th—Adds Lawrence County, deletes Clermont.

7th—Deletes Warren County.

8th—Adds Richland County.

9th—Unchanged.

10th—Divides Franklin County.

11th—Deletes two townships of Trumbull County (including Warren).

12th—Removes western part of Franklin County.

13th—Adds Medina County, removes Sandusky County.

14th—Removes southern Summit and Medina counties.

15th—Removes Monroe, adds Fairfield, Hocking, Gallia, Vinton, Jackson, Meigs, and Athens counties.

16th — Removes Tuscarawas, Wayne counties.

17th—Adds Wayne, southern Summit, deletes Richland county.

18th—Adds Monroe, Tuscarawas counties, deletes Carroll County.

19th — Adds two Trumbull County townships (including Warren).

20th - 23rd — All Cuyahoga County, adjusted to population.

24th—New district of Butler, Clermont, Warren, rest of Montgomery County.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was off to a fairly sharp loss early this afternoon in slack post-holiday trading.

Declines of key stocks went from fractions to about 2 points. Many Wall Streeters were on a four-day weekend. Developments in foreign news, including the Congo and Viet Nam as well as the troubles of the British pound, created uncertainty.

The raise in the discount rate was followed by an increase in the prime lending rate—the interest charged to the biggest borrowers with the best credit ratings—by one bank. This underlined the financial community's concern about stiffer interest rates.

Losers included the top steels, Big Three motors, some of the key chemicals and coppers, utilities, rails, tobaccos and airlines.

Rubbers edged higher. Electronics and aerospace issues were narrowly mixed. Drugs were improved on balance.

Ohio College Students End 6-Week Space Diet

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Thanksgiving dinner must have been extra special for four collegians fresh—really fresh after their first baths and shaves in six weeks—from six weeks on a trial diet for space travelers.

Two students from Ohio State University, one from the University of Dayton, and a recent U.D. graduate served as guinea pigs in a 42-day test on rations of "freeze-dehydrated foods" in one-inch cubes, along with distilled beverages.

They also had to go the entire time without shaving, bathing, combing their hair, trimming their nails, changing clothing and smoking "to evaluate minimum personal hygiene procedures." They spent 28 days in a spacecraft-like capsule and 14 days in hospital isolation.

The ordeal was part of continuing research at the Aerospace Medical Research Laboratories of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

All four emerged Tuesday with beards and grown-out crewcuts but evidently none the worse for wear. Only one lost weight—six pounds—on their ration of 2,500 calories a day apiece.

They are Robert D. Trepp, 22, an Ohio State medical student from Lakewood and the group's only married man; John Richey, 21, an OSU freshman from New Philadelphia; Daniel M. Tomica, 22, U. of Dayton graduate from Bradford, Pa., and Vince Mixie, 24, a U. D. junior from McKees Rocks, Pa.

Trepp said Thursday it took about three days to get used to the food but that it "wasn't so bad—we got so we looked forward to it."

Trepp said no major problems arose.

And, for this longest period to date that men have dined solely on "space foods," as the research center described it, Tomica, Trepp, Richey and Mixie received 11,000 apiece from the Air Force.

Demon Rum Makes A Comeback

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Rum, once a universal drink which languished in favor when temperance leaders made it a "demon" and a whipping boy, is making a comeback.

In the last decade or so, rum's popularity has grown sharply, particularly in the United States where consumption has doubled since 1955, though it still accounts for only 2.1 per cent of distilled spirits consumed.

The Distilled Spirits Institute, calculating from tax returns, reported U. S. sales in 1963 of 1 million cases.

Rising affluence in Europe and industrialized nations elsewhere, the growing acceptance of the Western cocktail and rum's adaptability in this regard have worked in its favor.

With Cuba out of the picture, Puerto Rico leads all rum producers with its scores of famous brands.

Made from sugar cane, rum comes in varieties ranging from 80 to a jolting 160 proof. The tamer varieties are favored in the United States, the greatest consuming country.

History shows that during the American Colonial period, rum was the top alcoholic drink, mainly because there wasn't much of anything else, and it made good hot drinks.

Rum flourished in America for around two centuries, but began to wane when slave-trading with Africa stopped around the beginning of the 19th century. Slaves were part of a three-way trade, the other two parts being molasses, or sugar, and rum.

It became the "demon rum" for temperance leaders. This, and the fact it was not a native drink since much of its raw material had to be imported, caused it to die out in popularity.

Ironically, it was the prohibition era in the United States failed to stir up any concern or even very much interest in government quarters here.

A statement by the Soviet news agency Tass declared that persons who "harbor adventurous plans" for Southeast Asia "should understand that the Soviet Union cannot remain indifferent to the fate of a fraternal Socialist country and is ready to render the necessary assistance."

Upon his arrival at Andrews Air Force Base Taylor denied reports which had preceded him here from Saigon that he would present a plan to President Johnson for extending military operations to the north and would resign unless Johnson accepts the plan.

"So far as I'm concerned I've enlisted in this war for the duration," Taylor said, implying that whether he stays on is not his decision but the President's. Johnson and Taylor are expected to meet Sunday or Monday after the President returns from his extended visit to his Texas ranch. Advance word was that Johnson would play an active role in the discussions preceding any policy decisions.

The second man allegedly involved is being held for further investigation, police said.

The 1950 Chevrolet, owned by Mrs. Mary Sowers, Route 2, was taken from its parking place at Circleville High School. It was discovered missing at about 9:30 p. m.

The Gospel of God's Grace

THE GLORIOUS AND ETERNAL CONSEQUENCES OF CHRIST'S COMING

Scripture—Titus 1:1-3; 2:11-14; 3:4-8.

By R. H. RAMSEY

TITUS was a Greek Gentile, possibly a native of Antioch, whom Paul refers to as "my true child after the common faith." He was probably converted by Paul, as he became one of his most trusted co-workers.

He was evidently a man endowed with great strength of character, for Paul's letter to him shows none of the anxiety concerning moral character revealed in the letters to Timothy. Because Titus was not one of Paul's constant companions, but was sent by him to carry out assignments in various places, we may assume he worked somewhat independently.

At one time, Paul had given him the delicate task of correcting abuses in the Corinthian church. At the time of today's lesson, the epistle indicates Titus stayed on in Crete as Paul's deputy after the apostle left for Rome.

It would seem that the great theological truths which open the letter to Titus so dominate Paul's thinking, in prison or out, that they pour forth into every letter the apostle writes. It is evident that this particular letter was written between the two addressed to Timothy, for it not only contains a discussion of the needs of the Cretan church, but is filled with references to the life to come and the great themes that relate to eternity.

The great central theological passage of this short epistle can be found in Titus 2:11-13, four verses so rich in meaning that whole books have been written on them. Verse 11 refers to the coming of Jesus Christ, either His first coming in the Incarnation, or His second coming to judgment.

Paul's words picture Christ as a sun, obscured by the mists of sin in men's hearts, which pours itself down upon the mists and burns them away until its radiant light is spread basically, the love of man as man, humanity showing itself in kindness to equals and pity for those in trouble. He compounds this kindness of God with the love of God and the mercy of God.

According to His mercy, we, as individual souls, are saved, born again and living on a higher plane than before, through the renewal or baptism of the Holy Spirit which has been poured upon us so richly through Jesus Christ our Savior.

For the second time in this brief passage, Paul uses the term grace, and connects it with the concept of eternal life. We are justified by the grace of God, declared righteous—not because Jesus Christ is righteous and has, by His death for us, been able to impute His righteousness to us—and thus we have forgiveness, the fruit of sovereign grace, and become heirs to God's eternal life.

Imagine! Used House Lots

NEW YORK (AP) —Tired of your old house? Why not junk it, and buy a new one — just as you do your old car?

In the future that's just what Americans will do, according to a finance expert.

"The field is changing so swiftly — there are so many new innovations — that a house is out of date in 25 years," said Jack H. McDonald.

"You should be able to tear it down and rebuild it, or discard it as you do an old car now. That day is coming, just as soon as we can find a way to reduce building material costs."

McDonald, 54, son of a Pratt, Kan., railroad engineer, migrated west as a youth and entered the finance field. Today he is president of the San Diego Imperial Corp., the nation's fourth largest savings and loan holding company. It has assets of nearly $900 million.

Experience gained in making thousands of home loans has made McDonald an authority on America's building trends. He says the husband usually has the least influence of anyone in the family on deciding on the nature of its housing.

"Mom is still calling the shots in American home building. Then come the kids. And then, and only then, it's Pop. Sometimes even old Rover has as much to say as father."

McDonald says the American is somewhat nomadic by nature — and getting more so.

"On a nationwide basis, the average person moves once every five years, but more often than that in the Southwest and West."

"We have always been pretty much a nation of one-family homes, and that will continue. But land is getting so expensive, there is also a national trend toward highrise apartment buildings — even in Hawaii."

"This country is no longer agrarian. If our economic projections are right, in the not too far distant future 75 per cent of the country will be urban. By 1980, it is estimated, more than half of the U.S. population will be living in some 40 metropolitan complexes of 1½ million or more people."

"It is a fascinating shift," McDonald said that while the suburban rings are enlarging around most metropolitan areas, skyscraper apartment buildings are going up in the downtown areas of cities.

"There is a great two-way movement. You have one group taking people out of the city, and another group bringing them back in," he said.

"Many of those returning families who have raised their children and are weary of commuting or bored with the routine of suburban living."

A DRAFTEE WAS assigned as chauffeur to a colonel who had a keen eye for a pretty girl. One afternoon the colonel spotted a real beauty anking along Park Avenue in the opposite direction and ordered the chauffeur, "Turn the car around on the double and pull up alongside that pretty young lady."

The driver promptly stalled his motor in carry-out the directive, and by the time he got it going again, the beauty had disappeared in the crowd. "Soldier," snapped the highly-irritated colonel, "you'd be a total loss in an emergency."

"I think you're wrong, sir," hazarded the soldier. "That was MY girl."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Q: Is leukemia a cancer of the blood?

A: Leukemia is considered a malignant disease. It occurs in a variety of types, each of which is recognized and often distinguished by changes in the blood cells.

Q: Is leukemia a new disease?

A: No. It was identified as a disease entity more than 100 years ago. It has recently been brought into greater prominence because of the concentrated scientific efforts to learn its secrets and its cure.

Q: Can leukemia be caused by repeated X-rays of the chest or teeth?

A: Definitely not. This fear has been unwittingly introduced by unguarded statements about "leukemia and radiation hazards." Years after the atom bomb exploded over Japan, cases of leukemia were reported in the area of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, directly attributed to massive exposure to radiation.

The small, almost insignificant amount of exposure during routine X-ray studies of the chest, intestines and teeth can not produce leukemia.

Q: What are the symptoms of leukemia?

A: Symptoms of leukemia, like symptoms of so many diseases, are varied, and frequently resemble those of other conditions. A description of any general symptoms may unnecessarily frighten anyone who already is worried about disease. The power of suggestion is strong and too often misleading. Medical students are always "sure they

Reverse Arm Twisting

By John Chamberlain

Lyndon Johnson, so it begins to look, is going to be as tough on steel management as John F. Kennedy. But where Kennedy hit Roger Blough on the issue of a steel price increase head-on, Johnson will try to get his way by finesse. Whether this will produce any uproar depends on the steel companies' sense of public relations. They could try a finesse, too.

The one big certainty at this point is that the United Steelworkers aren't going to try to finesse anything. With the steel union president, David McDonald, on the hot seat with a number of his locals who are backing a rebel for the union presidency, the bargaining demands on the companies are bound to be as stiff as or even stiffer than Walter Reuther's demands on the automobile companies. Since the White House has let the automobile union breach the unofficial wage increase guidelines set by the departed economic adviser, Walter Heller, it can hardly tell David McDonald that he can't have his way. The steel workers are in an even stronger position than the automobile workers, for the Johnson sweep on November 3 was due in good part to the massive campaign put on by labor to defeat Goldwater. Johnson, to use John L. Lewis's old figure of speech, has supped at labor's table.

Naturally, the steel companies consider that sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, and that if steel labor can get up to seventy-five cents an hour more in cash and benefits there is no reason for not raising prices. Logan T. Johnson, the president of Armco Steel, has said that the industry must boost prices on "some grades of plates, some grades of sheets and bars." Steel demand is terrific at the moment, and even though imports of foreign steel have continued to increase (they have been running 22 per cent higher than the figure for 1963) there has been plenty of business to go around. The steel companies have been making better than a seven per cent return on their net worth, which to labor — and to the White House — looks pretty good. But the companies argue that it is way below the figure for the return on investment in other manufacturing industries. If they are ever going to pile up any funds to invest in new oxygen process and vacuum refining equipment, they feel that now is the time.

What the White House has going for it in the effort to head off a steel price rise is the division in the steel industry between the primary producers and the small fabricators.

Steel union contracts tend to be uniform through the industry, which means that no company will be exempt from the coming wage - and benefit increase. But if there is a rise in steel prices, the independent fabricators will get clipped from both ends. They will be paying more for labor and more for raw steel. The big companies which do a lot of their own fabricating won't be faced with the double hazard. Lyndon Johnson, as a consummate politician, will certainly take advantage of the division in the steel community. He has also been hinting, through a

Labor Reforms Expected For Church of England

LONDON (AP) — Will Britain's new prime minister seek to modernize the Church of England?

Some of the clergy think he will. They contend an unreformed Church would stand out like a sore thumb in the kind of Britain he is aiming at.

Although a Congregationalist himself, Harold Wilson by his office now is largely responsible for ecclesiastical appointments

EVANGELIST — The Rev. Paul Brown of Logan will be the speaker for a series of Evangelistic services to be held 7:30 p. m. daily beginning Sunday and continuing through Dec. 6 at the Calvary EUB Church, corner of Washington and Mill Sts. The Rev. G. H. Niswender, pastor, invites the public to attend.

in the Church of England, the state established church. Bishops, cathedral deans, even some canons and lesser clergy are appointed by the monarch on Wilson's nomination. He could change the look of things by picking young men to the now aging bench of bishops.

There are 43 diocesan and 40 suffragan bishops in the Church of England today. The oldest is the 74-year-old Bishop of Sodor and Man; the youngest the 49-year-old Bishop of Southwell. Their average age is around 60. There is no fixed retiring age.

To be a bishop in the Church of England you must be "a learned presbyter" — priest — at least 30 years old, born in lawful wedlock, and of good life and behavior.

You will be addressed as right reverend and have the legal style of "my lord bishop." You may marry but, if you do, your wife will have no title or precedence at public functions. In rank you will be above a baron and below a viscount, marquess, earl or duke.

The two archbishops — Canterbury and York — sit with 24 of the other bishops in the House of Lords as spiritual peers. The bishops of London, Durham and Winchester sit there by right of their sees; the others by seniority of their consecration to the episcopacy.

It may fall to Wilson to appoint successors in several sees. He will get plenty of advice from the Archbishop of Canterbury downward whenever a vacancy occurs. But he doesn't have to follow it.

Harold Wilson, the man who married a Congregationalist minister's daughter, may yet give the establishment that shake-up part of it seems to wish.

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

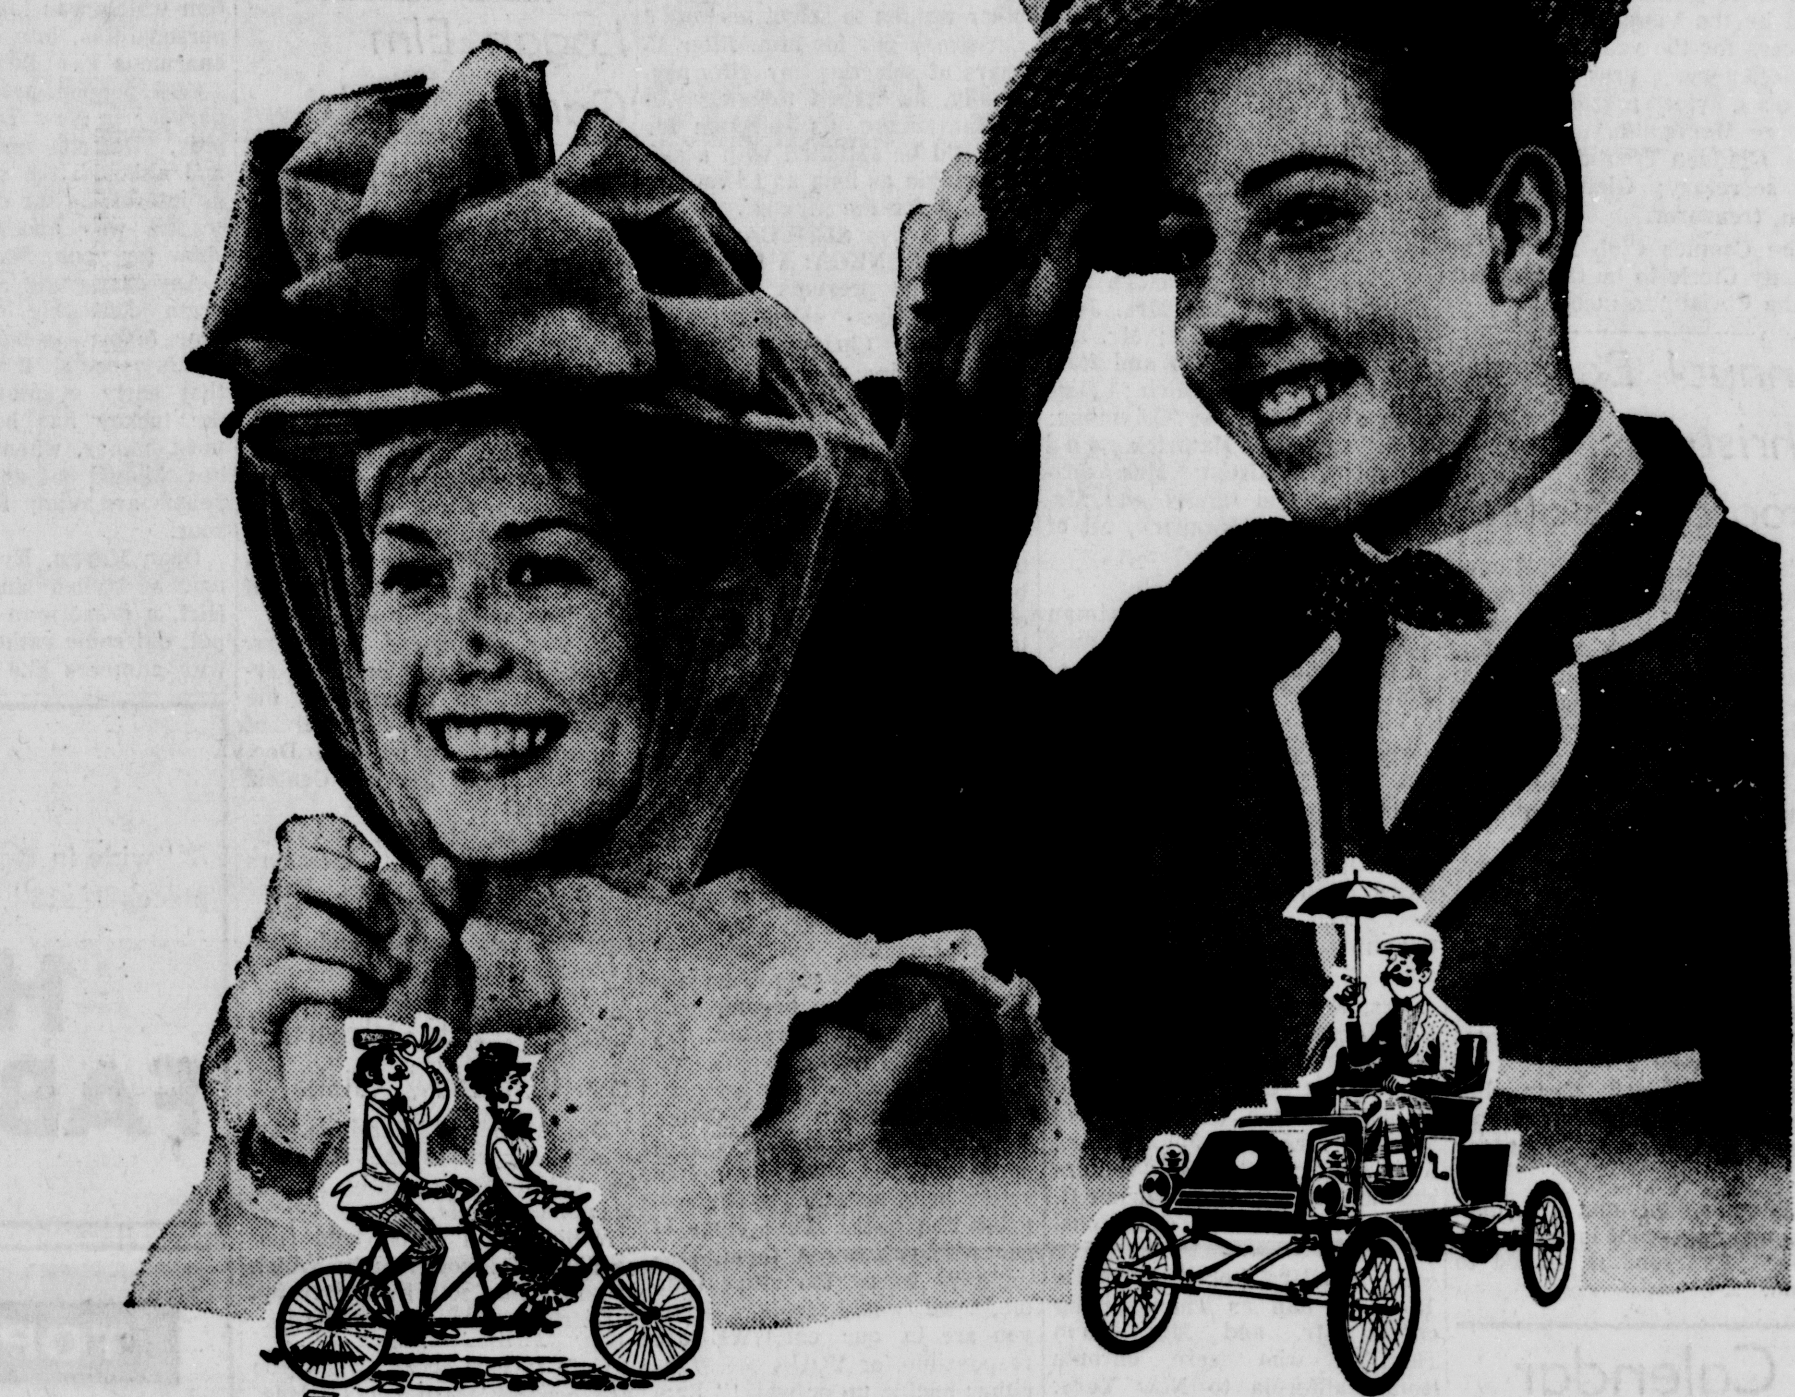

The following is from Baha'i teachings: "Justice is the basis of stability in labor relations today, as well as in all other human relationships. Any situation or arrangement between two parties, in which each stands satisfactorily to gain, is a stable situation; for neither party would desire to disrupt it.

"Baha'u'llah included a mode of expressing industrial mutuality in his general economic pattern; the sincere guarantee, at the beginning of the employed term, of what percentage of net profit should accrue to labor. This is profit-sharing.

"Bahais claim the success of this law cannot be achieved without spiritual motivation and guidance.

"The secrets of the whole economic question are spiritual in nature, Abdu'l-Baha has said love and unity are the needs of the body politic today."

We Won!

Garry and I won first prize last Saturday! It was the young people's Olde Tyme costume party at the church, and we had a wonderful time.

I go to almost everything the club puts on, and of course there are lots of activities besides parties and dances. We visit hospitals, we collect and repair toys for underprivileged children, and we help with various church events. We have regular religious discussion groups that often get me so interested I continue the discussion around the family dinner table all week long! Mom and Dad don't mind, though. They think it's good for me to be mixing with other young Christians, and they never worry when I'm over at the club.

Your own church offers many enjoyable and worthwhile activities for Christians of every age. Why not join? You'll be warmly welcomed.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Dear Abby: Where's the Disgrace?

DEAR ABBY: My sister's employer died recently and he left her $850,000, thereby disgracing our whole family. She went to work for him she was 22 and was his loyal employee for 31 years. She was a good Christian woman, Abby, and there never was a breath of scandal about her.

When her employer died and it was learned that he had left half his estate to his wife and the other half to my sister,

Views on Television — Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Santa Claus officially arrived in the nation's assorted towns Thursday, courtesy of CBS, and NBC's reports of various Thanksgiving Day parades.

For the next 28 days, television viewers may just as well reconcile themselves to commercials which are chock full of holly, evergreens, carolers in blizzards of cornflake snow merrily decking the halls with bough and of proud daddies in cotton batting beards admiring electric razors, cameras and after-shave lotion.

On Thanksgiving Day itself, most of the regularly scheduled programs were well prepared and the jolly hosts of the pre-taped game and panel shows greeted us with hearty good wishes, even though the members of the studio panel looked a bit bemused.

Highlights of the day were, as usual, the parades. NBC, as usual, focused its color cameras on the lavish New York celebration which was loaded with TV personalities, lots of bands and enormous gas-filled figures.

CBS popped around to show parades in New York, Philadelphia, Detroit and elsewhere, and although the sights weren't as interesting for color set owners, it was another delightful show for youngsters.

An easy-going musical program consisting of some all-time favorite songs was NBC's holiday special. It was timed for that early evening hour when the turkey has been eaten in most homes, when conversation has thinned out and when most people are ready for a relaxing hour.

Dean Martin, Eydie Gorme, a pair of stylish singers, and Al Hirt, a great man with a trumpet, did some rather nice things with numbers like "Sentimental Journey" and "Night and Day." Recommended weekend viewing:

Tonight — "NBC Follies of 1965," 10-11 Eastern Standard Time, musical variety with Steve Lawrence and Juliet Prowse.

Sunday — "Profiles in Courage," NBC, 6:30-7:30 p.m. with a drama about Thomas Hart Benton, the Missouri senator who led President Andrew Jackson's campaign against the Second United States Bank.

ROANOKE, Va. — Acquisition of new special purpose freight cars and equipment costing more than $2.1 million has been authorized by the Norfolk and Western Railway.

The road's diversified fleet will be augmented by 100 covered hopper cars, 53 insulated box cars and 10 bulkhead flat cars. An additional 25 tri-level racks will be purchased for use on cars hauling new automobiles.

Fifty of the airslide covered hopper cars will be of 2600 cubic foot capacity and fifty will have 4180 cubic feet of loading space. They will be used principally in the transport of flour. The cars will be built by the General American Transportation Co., at East Chicago, Ind., with deliveries beginning about March.

The 53 seventy-ton insulated box cars will be delivered immediately by General American. The fifty-foot cars will be used largely in transporting grocery products.

Guidance Departments Misunderstood by Many

By HOWARD WEAVER
Westfall Guidance Counselor

Probably one of the most discussed and misunderstood recent additions to the educational system, is the guidance department.

Although guidance was introduced as an organized service in some schools, in the early part of the Twentieth Century, it took the appearance of a Russian satellite in the skies to breathe real life into the program. Recent years have marked the rapid appearance of guidance services in many school systems throughout the nation. The swiftness of its development has left many parents and students, and some teachers with uncertain ideas about the objectives, methods or results of modern school guidance programs.

Perhaps one of the first questions that could be asked is, "Why is guidance needed in the schools today?" After all, did not grandfather survive without it in the days of the Model-T Ford, prohibition and national isolation? And, did not father find a purpose in life throughout the great depression, World War II and the Korean conflict? However, the past ten years have brought about marked technological, economic and cultural changes at a pace never before experienced by the adult world. These changes have introduced new vocations which are unfamiliar to the parents of the students who need to prepare for such positions.

Many more students than in the past are completing high school and continuing their education in college, business schools, or technical training institutions. For national strength and individual fulfillment, each student needs guidance to make maximum use of his talents.

In personal understanding, so many situations met by a young person have never been met before. They present a strange and frightening pattern that must be understood before it can be dealt with effectively. The youth is torn between identifying himself with his classmates and their behavior patterns, and an adult society that placed stringent expectations upon him. There is a growing feeling among adolescents of being isolated from the adult world which is becoming more and more complicated. As a reaction, he retreats into the world of his own generation — one of fast automobiles, dances that defy description, and practical jokes which consume cases of toilet tissue.

The loneliness of the adolescent is a deep and utter loneliness, and the future may intensify it. His quest for personal identity will be more critical than ever. He will need more help than ever to find himself in a complex modern community during the sixties. The youth is faced with a longer period of education which must be combined with needs for mating and marriage. He faces a world of increasingly new conditions and new opportunities, a world in which occupations change as well as values. Many occupations of 1960 will be greatly modified or pass out of existence by 1970 or 1980 and new occupations will appear.

The task of the counselor is correspondingly complicated. It is not enough for him to understand youth in isolation. More than ever before, the counselor must understand not only the student, but himself and his adult contemporaries as they attempt to adjust to a rapidly changing technology and world order.

In explaining the guidance program, perhaps it would be easier to emphasize what guidance is NOT or at least what is NOT the main focus of the guidance function. Guidance is not a redeeming agency for the incorrigible. Guidance is not the salvation for the slow. Guidance is not the haven for the habitual annoyer. To be sure, guidance through the school counselor, functions for all pupils. Therefore, it is not concerned with the problem child. However, the primary function of the guidance department is to assist the many normal boys and girls to a better understanding of themselves. The guidance function considers the fullest development of the individual in his educational progress, career development, and personality fulfillment.

In accomplishing the objectives of guidance, the counselor uses individual and group tests; school orientation, information about vocational training, colleges, and careers; and placement facilities. Counseling is considered the primary activity employed in guidance. During this process the student is aided by conferences to understand himself in relation to the developing and changing world. Counseling provides professional assistance for each individual. Until recently the student has not been able to sit down and discuss his concerns with an interested adult professionally trained in the art of counseling. Individual counseling helps the student interpret and relate facts about himself and his world and to apply this knowledge in both solving everyday problems and making realistic educational and occupational plans.

Learning decision-making skills is one of the main objectives of the counseling process. Decisions derived from counseling must be acceptable to the student and his parents. The counselor must have an awareness of individual differences of students, and a willingness to let students make decisions for themselves. The counselor's responsibility is to seek full and accurate interpretation of facts and to develop students and parent understandings. Once the student has alternate courses of action explained and understands the consequences of these actions, the responsibility for the decision rests with him.

Another important aspect of the guidance program is the testing service. Tests provide one means of knowing the individual, his achievements, his abilities and his interests. Although tests represent only a sampling of behavior and cannot be accepted as concrete evidence they do aid the gathering and utilization of pertinent information about the students for use by counselors, parents and teachers. Test results, along with other information from the education program, are best used when carefully interpreted to parents and students. A student's test results often show how he compares with other students in his community, his state or the nation.

There are other areas of concern included in the high school guidance program. But, in no instance can the counselor magically bring about immediate and observable results. Through proper planning the counselor can help the student prepare for and gain entrance to the college of his choice. Such plans should begin in the eighth or ninth grade for a course of study that will meet college entrance requirements.

The junior class will sponsor the dance held tonight after the Centralia - Logan Elm game.

This dance is one of the many money-making projects the junior class has planned for earning the money needed to sponsor the 1965 Junior-Senior Prom.

Mr. Duncan's homeroom is in charge of all preparation for the dance. For the theme they have chosen "Turkey Trot." Refreshments will include hog dogs, candy, potato chips, and soft drinks.

Records will provide the music for the dance. However, some change is planned in the playing order. The juniors intend to heed the many requests for "more slow records" called for at past dances.

FTA Unit Meets at Teays Valley

By BARBARA CROMLEY

The second meeting of the Teays Valley Future Teachers of America was held Nov. 17. A committee was appointed to make plans for the annual FTA Christmas Tea.

For the program, Sandy Ball, chairman, introduced James Brown, guidance counselor. He gave an informative talk on preparation for college and what colleges expect from their students. He urged Juniors to begin selecting colleges in order to gain admittance, since many colleges have already closed their doors to 1964 seniors.

Following this, a panel discussion was held. Becky Waits, Joan Courtright, Carol Greene, Karen Dum, Candy Melvin, Joyce Miller, Barbara Cromley, Dan Tipton, and Dave Sherertz each gave information on the college each plans to attend.

Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be Dec. 21 when former FTA members who are freshmen at colleges this year will be guests.

Westfall English Dept.

By MRS. LILLIAN GATES

As in most of the Westfall English classes, senior classes are studying a combination of grammar, literature and spelling.

The first six weeks were dedicated to the fundamentals of English. To conclude this unit of study, each student developed a composition over the material covered.

Literature was stressed the second six weeks. The topic was the pagan and medieval period in English literature. A composition unfolding the progress of English literature was therefore written.

Two book reviews have been developed thus far. The first one was written; the second was given orally to the class. When two or more students had read the same book, a panel discussion took place. Each student would relate the events occurring in his particular part. In this way, the book was thoroughly explained in an interesting manner.

Although spelling has not been neglected, it has not been neglected. It played a large part in composition grades. Also, we have had a few spelling lessons; one covering literary terms.

We are now trying to master diagramming. The subject being diagrammed is the complex sentence.

The Sophomore Class held its third meeting of the year Nov. 23. Reports were given by the secretary and treasurer. It was decided to sponsor a dance after a basketball game.

WF Biology Classes Busy

By LYNN STRALEY

The biology classes, first, second and fifth periods under the instruction of Paul Hoskins, have been very busy since school started this year.

They have studied such topics as the cell, algae, bacteria and the parts and functions of a plant. They have also worked in the lab and looked at many forms of plant life under the microscope.

Besides studying hard on these and other topics, they have been working on insect and leaf collections. They have taken one field trip and saw the different kinds of trees, insects and birds. They have worked long hours on collecting and classifying these collections.

They gave the order and the family to which an insect belonged and the family, genes, species and common name of each leaf. Many fine collections of which they can be very proud were turned in last week.

It is hard work, but they are enjoying biology and gaining much information about the life around us.

After lunch, the other teams participated, of which Westfall was second in order. As he results were announced, Canal Winchester received a gold medal with 169 points out of a possible 200. Westfall received a silver medal with a score of 141 points.

15 LE Seniors

Take ACT Test

By JUDY SHORT AND SHARON GRAVES

One cool crisp morning recently 15 seniors from Logan Elm arrived at Chillicothe High School to take the American College Test, better known as the ACT, which many colleges require from entering freshman. Everyone was a bit drowsy and dreaded the thought of facing such a long, hard examination so early. The test had five parts — English, science, social studies, math, and the student profile section.

At the conclusion of the test four hours later, everyone had begun to wonder whether he was really ready for college. However, most of us survived and afterwards several went out to lunch to try to wear off the feeling of utter humiliation of having done so poorly on the very important test.

Seniors Take Scholarship Test

By JANET DELONG and LINDA TRIMMER
On Nov. 20, many seniors throughout the county, who ranked in the upper fourth of their class took the senior scholarship test.

Within the walls of the testing center tension was released by noisy chatter among the students. As the time approached, three gentlemen entered the room and flagged the noisemakers to a screeching halt and tried to explain the directions. But as always, there were questions on the procedure.

When the test booklets were handed out, the tension reached its peak. Nervousness enveloped the entire room. At last, the crucial words were spoken. . . . "You may begin." With this, papers rustled and gray matter supposedly began to function. The following three hours were then spent answering the 300 questions which made up the test.

continually dealing him a judo chop to dispatch him to the Land of Nod.

Matter of fact, James Bond spends a good portion of the film in the captivity of the ambitious slob Goldfinger. Really, 007: If this sort of thing continues, you may have to turn in your revolver, holster and shoe-heel radio beam sender.

"Goldfinger" continues the string of enormously entertaining films based on the Ian Fleming superspy books. It has the most outrageous plot so far; a heist of Fort Knox is no small potatoes. Yet the film somehow seems less satisfying than "Dr. No" and "From Russia with Love."

One reason is the passive role of Bond, still expertly delineated by Sean Connery. In many of his encounters he seems strangely ineffective, recalling the private eye, punching bag, Philip Marlowe. One expects more mastery from Bond.

I have remarked before that the Bond films hark back to the Saturday matinee serials. It still goes. There is the same fascination: What can happen next; how will the hero get out of this pickle this time? "Goldfinger" even follows the serial tradition with the concluding announcement for the moviegoers to watch for James Bond's next adventure, "Thunderball."

"Youngblood Hawke" demonstrates why it is virtually impossible to make an absorbing movie out of the life of a writer. Delmar Daves has taken the least praised of Herman Wouk's novels and tried to involve the audience in the travails of a country boy who strikes it rich in the literary world.

Can anybody really care about the raw-talented young man who blows his quick success by poor investments and an entanglement with a married patroness? Doubtful.

Still, director, writer, producer Dave tries, and he is a craftsman with the sagas of turbulent human emotions—"In a Summer Place," "Rome Adventure." This time the material is against him. A fairly obvious replay of the Thomas Wolfe career, the Wouk book comes out on film as a clinical study of the possibilities and pitfalls of best-selling authorship.

The players do their best to rise above the material. James Franciscus, on a sabbatical from "Mr. Novak," is earnest and almost breathes life into the ill-starred author. Suzanne Pleshette and Genevieve Page do well as the good and bad women in his life, respectively.

Ohioan Bill Long Keeps Flying at 80

EDITORS: Here is another in the series of enterprise stories by Associated Press members. This story on octogenarian pilot Bill Long was furnished by William E. Scrivo, acting managing editor of the Lorain Journal.

By WILLIAM E. SCRIVO
The Lorain Journal

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Back in 1917 William H. (Bill) Long enlisted in the U.S. Army, figuring his nine years of flying experience would qualify him to serve as a pilot.

But after "10 days of exercises and running around," said Long, "they called me in and told me they were sending me home because of a palpitating heart." Long, who now wears a flowing, white beard, celebrated his 80th birthday recently and he's still flying.

Long has accumulated 8,000 hours in the air since he taught himself to fly back in 1908 by circling a Bleriot monoplane around an old racetrack here.

He taught himself as a matter of necessity, because there were no instructors. "I circled that track on the ground for I don't know how many times before I lifted her off the ground for a short hop," said Long.

Long's craving to fly was implanted in him by an uncle who wrote 5-cent novels about flying machines in the 1890s and was therefore classed as a "nut."

Three Lorain men who acquired a used Bleriot monoplane around 1908 asked Long to help them restore the craft to flying condition. That was just a few years after Long, who drove Lorain's first taxi, a White Steamer, had gone into the auto business.

The Bleriot was Long's flying primer until one of the other pilots flew into a storm and cracked it up. But a few years later Glenn H. Curtiss asked Long to help him prepare for his famous 65-mile flight from Euclid Beach Park in Cleveland to Cedar Point, a record flight in that era.

Long recalls that he was among some 15,000 who were on hand at Cedar Point Beach when Curtiss made his flight over water in the flimsy wood, wire and canvas biplane.

"A photographer was waiting for the plane to land, standing with his head under a black hood . . . right in the plane's path," Long recalled. "At the last minute someone rushed out and tackled the photographer, rolling him out of the way. 'I never did know if he got a picture.'"

Curtiss, an exponent of flying boats, gave Long many tips on flying such craft. Long and several other Lorain men joined in buying a Benoist flying boat. The group took the plane to Cedar Point to use in flying passengers to and from the resort, but it crashed during a practice run. A board piloted by an inexperienced operator ran into the downed plane, smashing it.

After World War I, Long and his associates bought a Curtiss MF flying boat.

"Those were the big money days," said Long. "We got $25 a head and you could get passengers as long as you could keep the motor running."

They kept the motor running from early morning until midnight or 1 a. m. when the moon was bright over Lake Erie.

The ferry service to Cedar Point ended after 13 years, when the plane crashed, injuring Long and his mechanic, Albert Baker.

"I did a damn fool thing," Long admits. "Something I had told many people not to do. I got careless."

He was banking down over

Cedar Point to land in Buemiller's Cove, when he hit a down-draft that sucked the plane down throwing it out of control.

A chance encounter led to Long's involvement in the Weaver Aircraft Co.

It was in the early 1920s when a group of itinerant flyers was passing through Lorain. The group, led by Buck Weaver, stopped to chat with a policeman who told them that "we've got one of them flying nuts here."

The group went to Long's garage and stayed to organize the Advance Aircraft Co. Long found an empty concrete building in nearby Avon, and the first plane produced, the Advance, was a success.

The company was re-organized under the name of Weaver Aircraft Co., and its Waco biplane became well known. Weaver Aircraft later moved to Medina, then to Troy, and went out of business in the mid 1930s, because of labor troubles according to Long.

Would he like to be young again? "No, I'd just like to go on and on, knowing what I know now," said the bright-eyed octogenarian.

Hard Working Group Stages CHS Musical

By RICHARD CRABLE

In an age when newspaper headlines spectacularly read of juvenile crime and violence, it is quite easy to imagine a typical teenager as a shiftless, apathetic, twentieth century monster. This fact is furthered by the seeming secrecy of the good activities and accomplishments of this age group.

There are times when even I wonder about the objectives of my contemporaries, whom I usually try to defend. However, I have just experienced six weeks of rehearsal for "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" which has restored any faith which I ever lost concerning CHS teenagers.

The whole school was offered the opportunity to take part in the first musical comedy ever presented at CHS. Though having accepted the position of director of dramatics, I was pessimistic about the response of both the students and the audience. Then came the days of tryouts and over 80 teenagers tried out for parts. All these people gained parts on stage in some capacity, and work began.

For six weeks many students worked for three or four hours a day in rehearsal. Everyone involved did a tremendous job: actors responded well, committee members functioned beautifully, the technical crew was great, and no one can deny the wonderful job of accompanist and orchestra. In short, these "shiftless, apathetic, monsters" all worked hard toward the common goal of a superior production.

For the audience, two great nights of theatre were presented. I'm sure that no one here could deny the hardwork, enthusiasm, and talent which was combined on the CHS stage. This was what made my job easier than it might have been: the worth of the students involved.

So when someone asks dejectedly, "What's the younger generation coming to?" I can say — "If you don't know, you're in bad shape. I've just finished six weeks work with some of the greatest people in the world."

Hi-Y Sponsors

Holiday Assembly

By BOB ANDERSON

The annual Hi-Y Thanksgiving Assembly was held Wednesday morning in the high school auditorium.

Bruce Lindsay opened the morning's services with the call to worship and prayer. Following the prayer, the high school choir, under the direction of Mr. Truman Eberly, sang three special songs. The songs were "Thanks Be To God", "Blessings", and "Bless This House." The readings of a Thanksgiving poem by Glenn Plum followed.

Dick Butts, president of Hi-Y, welcomed the student body, teaching staff and introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. Henry Walters from the First Presbyterian Church. The Thanksgiving message was followed by the hymn "For The Beauty of The Earth."

Branson Hawkes gave the benediction.

CHS's Commercial Department Offers Balanced Course

CHS's commercial department offers a well rounded course to the students who are interested in entering the world of production and distribution of goods and services.

To graduate in the commercial course a student must have successfully completed two years of typing, one year of exploratory business and consumer education, one year of bookkeeping, and two electives from the other commercial subjects offered. These include shorthand, bookkeeping, law and sales, office practice, and distributive education.

Mrs. Herbert Barrett, Mrs. Lois Brobst, Mrs. Charlotte Greenwood, and Miss Juanita Phillips, who staff the department, have several aims in their department, to which they all adhere. They, not only believe in a thorough grounding in the fundamentals in their courses, but they also believe in developing the attitudes necessary to successfully compete in today's business world.

Privileged Characters

By LINDA GOODMAN

Are you a privileged character? Do you consider yourself able to squeeze in the lunch line? Are you a special person and able to talk in study hall when others are quiet and settled? Can you, in your opinion, tell the teachers how to run their classes?

If you answer "yes" to all, or even one, of these questions, then, my fellow students, you have much more to learn than you are learning in school now.

No student or teacher will respect another student of this sort. If you want to gain attention, "get with it" and act with more respect toward your teachers and your fellow students!

Hunters Invade the Woods In Man's Oldest Pursuit

By LARRY STOUT

Each fall when the frost whitens the stubble fields, the leaves turn red in the swamps and at dusk the skies echo the honking of geese on their way south, sportsmen invade the woods and fields by the thousands.

For the past several days they have been oiling their shotguns and rifles, rubbing the barrels, stock and fore-end to a velvet smoothness. Along beside them the old dog has followed each movement with eager anticipation until at last the moment has arrived.

For more than 300 years, the autumn season has been eagerly awaited by the American hunter. For centuries men have looked forward to their days in the field with the thrill of bagging their catch. It was said in E. C. James book, "A Boy And His Gun", "Indeed, hunting is man's oldest pursuit. Small wonder then that modern boys should carry in their bones this heritage of the chase."

Originally, men hunted for food in order to live. Also at this early age of hunting history, the dog became domesticated and threw in his lot with man. This hunting combination has endured through the ages. Today these two are an inseparable team in the field.

The time has long since passed when men have to hunt for their food. Today hunting is a sport that takes them in the woods and fields during the most beautiful season of the year. This sport teaches patience, observation, and self-reliance. In turn this brings us companionship of fellow men.

It doesn't matter whether their hunting is in the uplands, the wildfowl marshes, the snow-covered mountains or in the jungle. It doesn't matter if your favorite gun is a shotgun, a .22 or a high-powered express rifle. What does matter is the attitude you bring to the sport and the pleasure you get from it. These depend largely on your knowledge of firearms and the game you are seeking. For the memories of the days in the field are most dear to the gunning sportsman's heart. Make this season a memorable one, not a tragic one.

CHS Choir

Has 66 Members

By NANCY PICKEL

One of the harder working groups at CHS is the music department's choir of 66 members.

The choir, which meets first period every morning, has been working with Thanksgiving music for the assembly which was held last Wednesday. It will continue to practice Christmas music, especially for the vespers services held each Christmas season at the school.

This group is little recognized for its excellent work except at a time of performance. They make approximately seven appearances throughout the year. Types of music studied vary from religious to novelty, to Broadway musical numbers. Choir members enjoy singing good and varied music in the way that it was intended to be sung.

Girls' Sports

Under Way at CHS

By PATTI JEFFRIES

Girl's sports schedule for this winter is pretty well under way.

On Nov. 8, bowling leagues began another season of fun. In physical education you can see the volleyball flying over the net while someone is prepared to send it right back. Volleyball intramurals are being organized and they will soon begin.

Mrs. Carolyn Perone should be heartily thanked for giving the time and having the patience with the many girls participating in intramural sports.

Musical Well-Attended Both Nights

By DAVID AMEY

The CHS Journalism Class would like, at this time, to give a well-deserved and equally well-intended tip of the hat to everyone even remotely concerned with CHS's combined production, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

Sponsored by the Junior Class, the musical blossomed into one of the best attended and best prepared stagings ever held in the high school auditorium according to most local critics.

Needless to say, the production would not have been possible except for a lot of hard, hard work by all members of the various committees, and the director, Mr. Robert Ransom.

General community acceptance of the musical was spotty, during the birth and growth of the idea. But a majority of Roundtowners attended the two performances of the musical, at least the majority of them, the could fit into the jam-packed auditorium for the two night "debut and finale."

We, personally, would like to see more of the all school musicals presented to the public and with the two-packed nights, all indications call for more to come. But public support will always be needed at CHS in order to bring a small piece of Broadway to Roundtown.

Party Given After Play

By BOB ANDERSON

Following the all school musical last Saturday, the cast and committee members enjoyed a fine and gay party at the Episcopal Parish House with the "Roundells" heading the entertainment.

The music was formed around a great safari into the darkest jungles of Africa. Charles Martin, who was the leader of the safari, lead the group in the music of the unknown. Although "Twist and Shout" didn't come from Africa it was still very good music for dancing and having fun.

At the party, directors Robert Ransom and Dick Crable expressed their thanks for the great help and co-operation everyone gave him during the last six weeks of preparation. The cast expressed its thanks for a job well done by presenting the directors with gifts of appreciation.

Key Club Plans Basketball Game

By BOB PRITCHARD

CHS Key Club is in the process of arranging a basketball game between the Circleville faculty and the discjockies of WCGL radio.

The date for this has not been set, but will take place during league season.

Among the teachers who have agreed to play are Mr. Saam (who has asked to guard Emperor Hill personally), coach Don Neff, Mr. Langland, Mr. Kravitz, Mr. Dawson, Mr. Carpenter, Mr. Ater, Mr. Everett and Mr. Ransom. Mr. Shaw said he was not interested in playing but if needed, he will coach the great Roundtown team.

As soon as the date is announced an all out publicity campaign will be launched to fill the high school gym with students and parents.

DECA Is Newest Club at CHS

By BOB PRITCHARD

The DECA Club of CHS is the newest club at the high school and is still unknown to many of the students.

Our local chapter of DECA has been in operation since Sept. 18. Since that time we have had a candy sale, sold flowers at the Circleville Homecoming game and attended the Regional DECA organization convention.

We have had two local merchants visit our club to give talks on their lines of business. They were Mr. Black of King's Department Store and Mr. Kifer of the local A&P store.

We have an after-the-game dance planned for January. Our regular club meetings are held every Friday during the fourth period and are open to the public.

Teacher of the Week

By DAVE AMEY

The Journalism Class is honoring a figure familiar to CHS boys as "the Teacher of the Week."

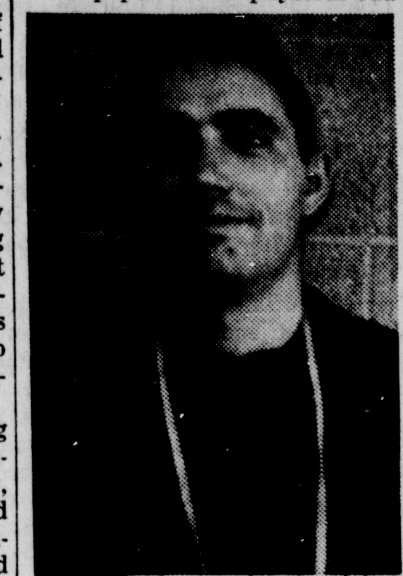

Mr. David LaBounty, 27, of 128 E. Mill St., boys' physical education teacher, is thusly honored.

During a week's time, Mr. LaBounty meets with 380 boys. Imagine at the end of each six-weeks, determining this many grades as well as deciding whether the conduct and effort is satisfactory. As physical education teacher and coach, he has an unusual opportunity to help and guide boys. He does an excellent job.

His philosophy of teaching bears this out. "In order to prepare boys for physical activity, both during school years and after graduation, I try to educate the boys both mentally and physically to the many activities which we participate in while here at Circleville High School. I try to include a wide variety of activities to prepare the boys for worthwhile leisure activity in later life."

A native of Ashtabula, he played on the high school football team as a guard and was a pitcher on the baseball squad. He went on, after graduation, to obtain a degree in physical education at Ohio State University. He pitched for the Buckeye baseball squad. The popular CHS physical education teacher also doubles as head cross country coach and head wrestling mentor. Oddly enough he lists football as his favorite sport.

DAVE LABOUNTY

Mr. and Mrs. LaBounty have an 18-month-old son, Timmy, who undoubtedly will be either a high school wrestler or football player.

Sports — Forecast, Records

By DAVE AMEY

The CHS wrestling program, with the addition of a reserve team, and a "fine" turn out of 2' boys, promises some surprises for mat flapping fans.

Mr. David LaBounty, head coach, lists inexperience as the main drawback for the grapplers. Five of the 53 candidates lettered last year.

Forming the nucleus of the team are Charles Martin, Craig Benzenberg, John Butts, Mick Tomlinson and Glenn Easterday.

Mr. LaBounty expects a rough season, but with the potential "all's not lost."

Coach Kent Carpenter will handle the reserve unit this year, a team designed to hold interest for non-varsity members.

AFL Denies Sneak Draft News Story

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football League has branded as erroneous a newspaper report that the 5-year-old league held a "sneak draft" two weeks ago to get a jump on the senior National League in the brewing battle for the top college football players in the country.

The story, which appeared in Friday's New York Daily News — one day before the rival leagues conduct their separate drafts at different sites in New York — was immediately denied by league and club officials.

Milt Woodard, the AFL's assistant commissioner, flatly stated the story was "erroneous" while pointing out that "our constitution and by-laws don't allow this. We have set a date for the draft and if we sign anybody before that we would have to void this type of agreement. The story is not true."

The AFL held a premature draft three years ago, in violation of their agreement with the colleges to hold off until the final full Saturday of the collegiate schedule. Commissioner Joe Foss, who was not aware of the move instituted by club owners, ordered it voided.

Muskies Play Blue Raiders

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (AP)—The opponent for Muskingum College of Ohio in the Dec. 12 Grandland Rice Bowl regional NCAA small college championship football game will be Middle Tennessee State.

The Blue Raiders, whose campus is right here in Murfreesboro, accepted the bid after wrapping up the Ohio Valley Conference crown with a 24-0 Thanksgiving Day triumph over Tennessee Tech. Middle Tennessee has a 7-2-1 record to 8-1 for Muskingum, co-runnerup in the Ohio Conference whose champion Wittenberg declined the opportunity to play in the bowl game.

though they outscored the visitors from the field by six points, the Braves connected on only 66 per cent of their foul shots.

The losers made 18 of 27 attempts at the charity stripe. The Bulldogs swished 29 of 36 tries for an 80 per cent accuracy average.

The game was close throughout, with Logan Elm holding a 13-12 edge at the end of the first period. By halftime the score was knotted, 33-33, and the Braves pulled ahead in the third period, 53-49.

IT WAS in the fourth period that the superior foul shooting ability of the Bulldogs took its toll.

Jim Haynes, who scored 16 points, gave Centralia its first lead with 3:45 remaining in the tilt. He sank two charity tosses, putting Centralia ahead 63-62.

But it was Francis Breeden, a 5-10 senior, who put the game on ice for the winners. With 43 seconds of playing time, he connected on a pair of foul shots that put his team on top, 71-68.

Raymond Jones brought the Braves within one point, connecting on a set shot with 25 seconds to go.

But Breeden again stepped to the foul line, with the one-and-one ruling in effect. He connected on two more tosses to stretch the lead to three points.

Gary Lyons made the final bucket to assure the win for the Bulldogs — their fourth in as many starts this year.

TAKING scoring honors was Glenn Burchwell who swished nine field goals and seven foul shots for 25 points. Breeden scored 14 for the winners.

Logan Elm's attack was paced by two hustling guards. Rick Shaw, a 5-7 senior, hit 10 field goals and converted two free throws for 22 points. His runningmate, Mike Spangler, sank five from the field for 10.

Darryl Reichelderfer, 6-1 junior center for the Braves, connected on five field goals and three foul shots for 13 points. Russ Merrin, a sophomore, hit one from the field and eight at the foul line for 10. Jeff Lutz scored nine points and Raymond Jones six.

Both Lutz and Reichelderfer fouled out late in the game, hurting Logan Elm's rebounding abilities. For Centralia, Richard Austin was the only player lost via the personal foul route.

The Logan Elm reserves also lost, 42-40, although they held a 15-point lead at halftime.

Tomorrow the Braves play at Carroll. Westfall and Centralia tangle in a game of top local interest on the Bulldogs' floor tonight.

The Kingston Redskins picked up their third win in five cage starts this year Wednesday night by defeating Amanda-Clearcreek, 79-55.

Jerry Cole scored 29 points, 24 of them coming in the first half, for the losers.

The Redskins tallied 30 of 66 attempts from the field and 19 of 35 foul shots. Amanda hit 20 of 58 from the field and 15 of 30 at the charity stripe.

WITH the score tied at the end of the first two periods, Kingston went into a full court press defense in the second half. The Redskins stole the ball 20 times using this strategy.

Buckeye Team Lacks Veterans

By HAL PARIS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's long, brilliant string of Big Ten basketball championships figures to be snapped this season.

The inexperienced Buckeyes, stripped of two-time All-American Gary Bradds and two other frontliners, may be hardpressed to finish in the first division.

There simply doesn't appear to be enough talent around to capture a sixth straight conference crown. Unless coach Fred Taylor, who has built a 114-18 record in the last five years, finds solid replacements for his departed warriors.

In addition to Bradds, cornerman Don DeVoe is gone as is guard Tom Bowman, a victim of the books.

But Taylor, beginning his seventh campaign, appears unperturbed.

"How well we can do depends a great deal on how quickly our offense jells. We have better unit speed than a year ago and that added quickness should help us on defense," Taylor said.

The Buckeyes lack depth, height and are extremely green. But Taylor overcame other problems the last two years when no one expected Ohio to share the title with Illinois and Michigan.

What makes things tougher is that the conference is loaded.

"Indiana and Illinois return all five starters and five other teams return four," Taylor said. He points to Michigan as the club to beat and "somebody better whip them early or we're liable to see a runaway."

The Bucks, who open next Wednesday, are not without some bright spots.

Returning is Dick Ricketts, an outstanding backcourt performer who does everything well.

Taylor also has two highly touted sophs in Alan Rowley of Marion and Ron Sepic, of Uniontown, Pa. While this pair may not start in the opener, they probably will earn regular spots before the season is very old.

Wilt Gets 63 Against 76ers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Philadelphia 76ers may have come up with a new defense against Wilt Chamberlain — they pretend he isn't there.

Wilt poured in 63 points — high for the National Basketball Association season — against Philadelphia Thursday night but the 76ers capitalized on the frigid shooting of his San Francisco teammates and whipped the Warriors 128-117. It was the 76ers' third straight victory and the Warriors' sixth consecutive setback.

In Thursday's only other game, the Bob Pettit-less St. Louis Hawks overcame a 24-minute cold spell and bull-dozed the Boston Celtics 110-98 with a 40-point final period.

Rip Engle is in his 15th season as Penn State football coach. His teams have combined a 93-39-4 record.

Bad Gamble With Pistol Kills Youth

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Seventeen-year-old John Earl Wilson died in a Hamilton Hospital today of a bullet wound in the head that, according to the Butler County sheriff's office, he received while playing a backward version of "Russian Roulette."

Deputies said the youth, his brother Stephen, 16, and two girl friends were in the Wilson home Thursday night when John entered the room with his father's nine-shot .22 caliber pistol.

Deputies reported the other youths as saying John removed one bullet from the revolver—instead of all but one bullet as in the better known version of the game. He then spun the chamber, put the pistol to his right temple, according to the youths, and announced, "look, Russian Roulette."

The revolver fired and Wilson fell to the floor critically wounded. He died early this morning, about six hours later.

The Wilson boys' parents were out of town at the time, deputies said.

Watchman Dies in Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 74-year-old night watchman died Thursday night in a fire he set himself as part of his job at the Goldberg Iron and Steel Co. in suburban Grandview.

Police said the watchman, John D. Johnson called earlier Thursday night to inform them that he was setting a fire in the yard. The company periodically sets fires to remove wood and other burnable materials from scrap metal to be sold, and police said it is normal procedure for the company to notify them when the fires are planned.

A later check at the yard failed to turn up the watchman and officers called the fire department to put out the blaze. Johnson's body was found in the ashes.

Police and fire officials theorized that Johnson became entangled in some wire in the area of the blaze and was unable to escape the flames. A coroner's investigation was planned.

Steelworkers Support Abel

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—I. W. Abel of Canton has the support of Lorain's 7,000-member United Steelworkers of America Local 1104 in his bid to be elected president of the 1.2 - million member union.

Local 1104 President Carl Roberts said Thursday his local supported Abel and his ticket nearly unanimously, with only one vote cast for incumbent national USW President David J. McDonald. The local also nominated Paul E. Schremp of Amherst for re-election as USW District 28 director for the Cleveland, Lorain and Akron area, and Steve Caruso, Local 1104 vice president, for election to one of three international USW teller posts.

Steel Survey Expects Sales To Hit High

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steel Magazine says in its Nov. 30 issue that respondents to its annual survey of 7,500 metalworking managers predict sales in the metalworking industry will climb to a record $216 billion next year.

If that figure is reached it will be 6.3 per cent higher than this year's expected record of $203 billion, the metalworking weekly says.

"It's one of the brightest forecasts of this decade and one of the most optimistic since the survey was started nearly 20 years ago," Steel says. "Significantly, respondents have missed only once over that period."

The magazine says more than 50 per cent of the executives polled predicted profit performance will be improved upon 1965, while only 14 per cent expect profit declines. Thirty-four per cent said profits would maintain their healthy level.

"The managers caution, however, that recent wage settlements, raw material prices and inventory buildups could dim next year's outlook," Steel says. "Prognosticators say unit manufacturing costs (labor, materials, overhead) will jump three per cent."

Costs increasing, "Metalmen are more optimistic about their chances of nudging selling prices upward than they have been in the last two years." It says an over-all boost of two per cent is predicted by firms of all sizes.

Ohioan Charged With Murder

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — A murder charge confronts a young soldier from Hudson, Ohio, who police quoted as saying he grabbed a shotgun before "things went hazy"—and an escort of his wife was slain.

Spec. 5 Franklin L. Starr, 23, is held in the death of 19-year-old PFC Gary Williams James of Seattle. Both are stationed at Ft. Benning here.

Police said James had been out with Starr's wife, 20, and that they returned to the Starr apartment at 1 a. m. Thursday. They charged that the husband got his 12-gauge shotgun and felled James with three shotgun blasts.

Oswald Seemed Sullen, Aloof

WASHINGTON (AP) — From the time he set out for the Soviet Union in September 1959 until he returned home three years later, Lee Harvey Oswald saw few Americans other than embassy officials.

But those he saw remember something of the sullen loneliness that seemed to set him apart from other men.

The freighter S.S. Marion Lykes, bound from New Orleans to Le Havre, carried only four passengers: a retired Army colonel and his wife, a young student off to France to begin his college studies and Oswald.

George B. Church Jr., the retired colonel, remembered Oswald to the Warren Commission as an unsociable, withdrawn passenger who was seasick quite a bit during the 16-day journey and who, in his brief conversations, bitterly described the hard times his mother had during the depression.

The colonel's wife made an attempt to get to know the reclusive passenger, but was repelled and even had difficulty obtaining his address for her Christmas card list. She lent him a book, which he never returned, then left him to the conversational care of the chief engineer, who seemed to feel that Oswald was "a smart boy."

Billy Joe Lord, the student who was Oswald's cabin mate, found him "a normal, healthy individual, mentally alert, but extremely cynical." Neither was an outgoing type, so conversation between them was sparse. Lord recalled Oswald's bitterness "about the fact his mother had to work in a drug store in Fort Worth" and once heard his views on religion.

"I do not know why we discussed religion," Lord told the commission, "except that possibly he noticed that I had a Bible. Oswald could not see how I could believe in God in view of the fact that science had disproved the existence of God and that there was only matter."

All three passengers thought

Oswald was heading to a university, possibly in Switzerland. They had no idea he was on his way to defect to the Soviet Union. Lord didn't find out until a month later when his mother sent him a newspaper clipping from home.

Returning to the United States on the Holland-American liner Maasdam, Oswald penned a confused, heavily misspelled political treatise on ship's stationery outlining his disillusionment with both capitalism and communism.

"I have lived," he wrote, "under both systems, I have sought the answers and although it would be very easy to dupe myself into believing one system is better than the other, I know they are not."
